

ALBAMAR

Wine from the cool-climate of Casablanca Valley

sample case-card

Albamar on the Floor!

Owned and produced by the William Cole family, Albamar wines come from the prestigious Casablanca Valley, often called "Chile's Burgundy." The name Albamar pays homage to the valley's foggy sunrise (alba means sunrise) and the cooling breezes of the ocean (mar means ocean). The unique coastal location of the vineyard provides a long, warm growing season with cool nights, resulting in wines with refreshing acidity. The grapes are 100% estate grown and picked by hand. Albamar wines are an excellent value.

Available in three varietals

With a NEW label that makes an attractive case stack floor display.

★★★★+ Rating (Above Excellent):
Albamar Chardonnay; "Finely flavored (peach, grapefruit), long and zesty on the finish."
-Restaurant Wine

Albamar Pinot Noir, "Medium-light red in color, showing pure red cherry aromas and flavors... light and fruit forward, the wine is refreshing, clean and quite pretty."
