

CASABLANCA VALLEY, CHILE

Quintay is a boutique winery located in the heart of the coastal Casablanca Valley, Chile's quintessential cool-climate wine region. It was founded in 2005 by a group of renowned producers with the goal of growing the finest Sauvignon Blanc and Pinot Noir grapes in all of South America. Today it is owned by the Martin Weinstein family, maintaining its Chilean ownership, innovative spirit and mission of sustainably farming and nurturing their special plot of land located on the chilly Pacific Coast.

Quintay "Clava" wines focus on exhibiting optimal purity of their fruit as they are made from 100% estate grapes carefully selected from their vineyards. The resulting wines are fruit-driven, but also display complexity, earthiness and depth. The liveliness and crisp acidity make them ideal partners for the dinner table.
